Placements

Staffordshire University

- SU has an established history of using their strong links with industry to secure placements for the university's students.
- A placement is usually a 12-month full-time role that relates to the subject a student is studying.
- Many companies relish the opportunity to hire students on placement.
- In fact, a lot of employers go on to hire their placement students once they graduate.

Advantages of a placement for employers:

- Students as a source of new knowledge and ideas.
- A link with the University and access to their expertise.
- Students to complete a short-term project where a fixed role isn't required.
- Once the placement is over, the student will be fluent in the company culture and practices - making them a great choice to hire.

We have two very successful models that we use to deliver our internships:

- Graduate internships

- A graduate level position where a graduate works full-time for at least 12 weeks.
- After this period the employer has the option to take the candidate on permanently.

- Student internships

- A part time position that is suitable for a current student working between 10 to 20 hours a week for at least 12 weeks.
